

Wildland Research Institute (WRI) launch event

The New Wildland Research Institute welcomes

Wild Britain – a public lecture

“Are we wild enough?”

“Have we lost our connection with wild nature?”

“Should predators like lynx be re-introduced to Britain?”

5.30 for 6:00 - 8:00pm, Wednesday 21st October 2009,

Parkinson Court then Rupert Beckett Lecture Theatre

University of Leeds

Followed by wine reception and book signing in Parkinson Court

As part of its launch celebrations the Wildland Research Institute (WRI) at the University of Leeds is hosting a public lecture and debate on wilderness and wildland in Britain. Talks will be given by:

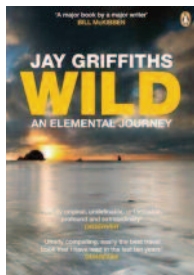

Roy Dennis, Highland Wildlife Foundation. Although best known for his work with ospreys, Roy has also been involved with many other species, including golden eagles, seabirds and Eagle owls.

“Roy Dennis is not only synonymous with the successful return of the osprey to Scotland, but is also renowned for his international work with a variety of species”

John Muir Trust

“What Diane Fossey is to gorillas and David Shepherd is to elephants, Roy Dennis is to ospreys”
Wildlife Extra Magazine

Jay Griffiths, Author of Wild: an elemental journey

“Wild is like nothing else I've ever read: thrilling, troubling, frightening, exhilarating.”

Phillip Pullman

“If a tiger could write poetry or a polar bear prose, they might write a book as exciting as Wild.” – Adrian Mitchell

“A book of staggering power, honesty and wit” – BBC Wildlife Magazine.

Tickets available free of charge: wildlandresearch@leeds.ac.uk
Further details online at: <http://www.wildlandresearch.org>

